

Take the next week to consider our study of Africa. This year in world history we discussed Africa during imperialism, with genocide and Darfur, and Zimbabwe. All of it has been basically bad news. It is your turn to help. How can you do that? Its not an easy answer. Its up to you. Spend at least an hour doing something that will help Africa. It can be a letter to someone, writing a blog, organizing a club or a campaign, or any idea you can come up with. Here are some organizations you can investigate and individuals that are helping to get your develop some ideas. Oh, and while you are thinking about helping Africa don't forget to participate in the local clothing drive sponsored by MAP.

Individuals:

Jackie Robinson's son (David):

Steph Curry:

Organizations:

Save Darfur

Dream Seed Academy

Invisible Children

Mike Campbell Foundation

When you have completed your hour of service for the people of Africa write a one page reflective essay stating (or showing) what you did and the process you went about to come up with your idea.